

Promoting Progress for Problem Feeders

Table of Contents

Book 1. Understanding Problem Feeders: Who and Why

Chapter 1: Strategies to Help the Problem Feeder

- Research Showing that Kids with Feeding Difficulties are Intrinsically Different Than Their Peers
- Sensory Based Problem Solving: Don't Assume it is Bad Behavior
- Helping Children Create Emotional Control
- Supporting Your Child in taking Medications & Supplements

Chapter 2: Delays in Cognitive Development and How it Impacts Feeding Skills

- Part 1: Sensori-Motor (Thinks like a child under 2-3 year)
- Part 2: Pre-Operational (Thinks like a child between 2-3 and 5-7 years)
- Part 3: Concrete Operations (Thinks like a child between 5-7 and 9-11 years)
- Part 4: Formal Operations (Thinks like a child over 9-11 years of age)

Chapter 3: Managing Allergies, Food Sensitivities, and Reflux

- The Differences Between Food Intolerances, Food Sensitivities and Food Allergies
- Managing Food Allergies
- What is in Different Formulas?
- Alternatives to Cow's Milk for Children over 1 Year
- What Causes Reflux?
- What is the Difference between GER and GERD?

Chapter 4: Additional Strategies for Supporting a Child with Autism

- Are there unique issues to children on the Autism Spectrum that make them so difficult to feed?
- What tips would you give to parents of children on the Autism Spectrum to help them teach their children how to eat better?

Chapter 5: Finding the Right Therapist for Us

Chapter 6: Why we don't use the ARFID diagnosis

Book 2. Supporting & Improving Problem Feeders' Oral Motor & Sensory Skills

Chapter 1: Start Here

- 5 Tips for Mealtimes with a Problem Feeder
- My child eats many different foods, but never eats enough at a meal. What is going on?

Chapter 2: Oral Motor Skill Development & Compensatory Strategies

- Oral Motor Skills Needed to Eat
- How to Teach your Child to Spit... and Why You Should
 - Steps to Spitting
- Preparing Family Foods to Match Your Child's Oral Motor Skills
- Simplifying Family Foods by Separating Textures
- Simplifying Family Foods to Make it Easier to Chew
- Use High Flavor Foods to Help Improve Oral Motor Skills
- The Benefits of Dips and Sauces for a Problem Feeder
- Higher Calorie Store-Bought Purees
- Low Oral Motor Demand Food Ideas
- Easy to Chew Lunchbox Ideas
- Higher Nutrition Crunchy Snacks
- Freeze-dried Fruits and Vegetables – A stepping stone food
- Add Protein with Collagen and Gelatin

Chapter 3: Supporting Better Sensory Functioning at Meals

- Why You May See Increased Feeding Challenges During Times of Stress or Change
- Sensory Based Problem Solving – Don't Assume it is Bad Behavior
- How to Respond When Your Child Says "Yuck" (or other resistance statements)
 - How to Respond When Your Child Says "Yuck"
- Decreasing the Use of Distractions
- Managing Food Jags
 - Food List
- Using the Food Range Tracker Tool
 - 2 Day SOS Menu Planner
- Food Jag Tip – Take food out of the original package
- They changed the packaging on my child's favorite food and now she won't eat it – why?
 - Abbreviated Steps to Eating
- Supporting Kids Who Aren't Able to Be in the Same Room with Non-Preferred Foods Yet

-
-
- Learning About New Foods at the Farmers' Market
 - Find the Rainbow
 - Eye Spy Shapes
 - Farmers' Market BINGO
 - Questions for a Farmer
 - Pull Up a Seat in the Garden – Setting a Therapeutic Table

Book 3. Supporting Your Child in Eating Outside of your Home

Chapter 1: Start Here

- Adapting Family Meal Routines
- Supporting Your Child at Family Gatherings
- Managing Vacations with a Picky Eater

Chapter 2: Supporting Eating at School

- Setting Your Child Up for Eating Success at School
- What is an IEP vs. IHP vs. 504
- Making the Most of Short Lunch Times
- Breakfast Ideas for a Super Start to School
- Easy to Chew Lunchbox Ideas

Chapter 3: Supporting Eating at Restaurants

- Adapting Family Meals for Restaurant Meals
- Supporting Your Child's Posture at a Restaurant
- Ideas for Helping Your Child Order from a Restaurant